Still Much Work
End of Session
Said Possible
Thursday Night

Fourth session of Alberta's first Legislature, which has been sitting since Feb. 10, may be prorogued late this evening by His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen, according to government officials. Business remaining to be dealt with includes 14 bills for third reading, and six more for consideration by committee of the whole, after which they also must be read a third time. Besides the legislative resolutions on the order paper may be debated before the session ends. While Thursday is private members' day, and ordinarily resolutions on the order paper would take precedence over legislation, it was agreed at Wednesday's sitting to deal with legislation first. Whether or not prorogation can be effected tonight depends entirely upon progress made in discussion of the legislation at the afternoon and evening sittings. It was said that if it can be completed by early in the evening, then the House will be prorogued at 10 p.m. by the lieutenant-governor. If that is not possible, then the session will be ended Friday, probably at a special morning sitting. Bills which must be dealt with in the session include one to establish a provincial revenue commission; one to authorize formation of a provincial bank; one respecting the training of apprentices; and one amending the Alberta Election Act. If the session does not end until Friday, the House will have completed its seventh week of deliberations, one of the longest sessions since the 1940 general election.

Forecast 10 Below
As Overnight Low

Snowfall during the current month, has been greater than in any other month of March for the last 15 years with the exception of March 1940 when 23.1 inches of snow fell. During this month to date 11.9 inches of snow has fallen in the city. The latest snowfall began at 1 a.m. Thursday and continued falling at 8:30 a.m. when four-tenths of an inch registered. The snowfall which began at 8:30 p.m. yesterday had been blowing at an average of 15 to 18 miles an hour and was continuing.

The temperature dropped considerably overnight. Maximum Wednesday was 37 degrees above zero and the overnight low 11. Temperature at 8:30 a.m. was still at the 11 mark, and according to officials will continue to drop. Temperatures continued to drop steadily in the city with a minimum reading at 2 p.m. was 9 degrees below zero. The afternoon forecast by officials predicts the temperature will drop to below tonight.

Lord Cavendish
Is Dead in Fire

DUBLIN, March 23.—(AP)—Lord Cavendish, 67, died in a fire in the sixth Duke of Devonshire and husband of the former Airedale and American dancer, Mrs. Mary Cavendish, in his 36th year at his estate, Lismore, near Waterford County, Ireland, had been ill for a long time. His romance with the sister of Fred Astaire, the famous dancing American lady, utilized both sides of the Atlantic. The couple had three children but all died soon after birth. When her husband died Lady Cavendish was in London on Red Cross war duties. The recent ban on travel to Ireland is expected to be waived to permit her to attend the funeral.

Election Vote

OTTAWA, March 23.—(CP)—The common election committee recommended yesterday that in the next general election the lapse of time between the official nomination day and election day be extended from 14 to 28 days to allow for the taking of the armed services' vote. The committee will present its recommendation to the House of Commons and suggest that the Dominion Election Act be amended to provide for the extension of the lapse of time which would allow candidates to campaign for an additional two weeks following their official nomination.

NOT FOR CAMPAIGNING
The recommendation was not adopted by the committee to permit time for campaigning, but to give election officers more time to deal with the taking of the armed services' vote. The committee also recommended that retiring officers be appointed at least 60 days before the day of elections is held. Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, said that the appointment of retiring officers could begin immediately if the committee's report is adopted by the House of Commons. He said the officers would not necessarily be required to campaign.

Godbout Introduces Expropriation Bill

QUEBEC, March 23.—(AP)—A government bill providing for the expropriation of provincial electric generating plants and the expropriation of Montreal Light, Heat and Power Commission property, introduced by Premier Godbout in the legislative assembly today. The bill was not made public immediately, but Premier Godbout issued a statement shortly after the first reading of the bill, which provides for the expropriation of the assets of the proposed provincial government.

MOSCOW, March 23.—The Red army cut a 60-mile swath to the Bessarabia approaches of Rumania today and 200 miles to the southeast stormed the defenses of Nikolaev, big Black Sea port and eastern anchor base of the hard-pressed German garrison in the Ukraine.

The German high command said that fighting was going on in the north and northeast of that century south of the Pripiat marshes in the eastern part of pre-war Poland and approximately 50 miles beyond the announced positions of the Red army.

A new Russian offensive south-east of Vitebsk on the other side of the Pripiat marshes also was reported by the Germans.

A Moscow broadcast recorded that fighting was going on in the north and northeast of that century south of the Pripiat marshes in the eastern part of pre-war Poland and approximately 50 miles beyond the announced positions of the Red army.

Front dispatches said the steam roller push had disrupted the lines of German and Russian troops to regroup for a stand on the border of Rumania and Bessarabia. The Russian army had cut the life-line of the German garrison in the Ukraine.

Air Power

Dangerous to Rebuke Airmen

By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

The small group of Britons and Americans who have protested against aerial bombardment of Germany are clearly well-intentioned and high-minded. That, however, does not change the fact that they are in the wrong. Their action is both unfair and dangerous.

It is unfair in that it singles out one phase of the war for rebuke, and obviously without the faintest understanding of the strategic objectives of air warfare. It is dangerous in that it may undermine the morale of our gallant airmen.

At a time when they are carrying the brunt of a great battle, it is scarcely encouraging for our air personnel to listen to charges that they are engaged in a "carnival of death," even though the charges come from a tiny minority of their fellow-citizens.

To military observers it is clear that the airplane as a weapon has been singled out for rebuke, merely because it is the latest and most efficient military force on the war scene. The depredations of other weapons have become familiar and less shocking, the world. The havoc wrought by air power is new and we have not become habituated to it.

Actually there is little difference between shelling a beleaguered city with land or naval artillery and bombing it from the skies. The main difference is that on the surface the destruction is gradual from the periphery of the enemy territory inward, whereas aerial attack is fast, penetrating deep with little to that territory immediately. The difference is not in the moral most involved, but only in the speed with which military objectives are accomplished.

WAR STRATEGY

One of the oldest of war strategies is blockade, which certainly is the age-old—women, children, the aged and the incapacitated—more directly than air bombing does. The fact that blockade kills and maims slowly, by starvation, rather than rapidly by bombs should hardly affect the military or moral ethics of the situation. Most important of all, the critics of air warfare have failed to grasp the strategy of the procedure. They accepted the false assumption that "we bomb is haphazard, a kind of blind vengeance or 'carnival of death.' Actually, strategic bombing is a rigidly controlled and planned operation directed toward the achievement of specific military purposes.

The critics also forget that modern wars are no longer duels between professional soldiers on the opposite sides. It has become total war in the sense that the entire population shares the responsibility and the risks. In the past the men who made policies and supported governments that undertook wars could remain safely behind the lines while others did all the fighting and dying. They carried moral but not physical responsibility. Today, with the advent of the airplane, they must accept both types of responsibility.

TAKE SOME CHANCES
In the moral and the physical sense alike, civilians today must take the same chances and pay the same price in danger that the soldiers do. Those who conceive and direct the organized destruction called war can no longer be exempted from its horrors. There is even a kind of rough justice in the fact that, under modern conditions, the people who tolerate aggression by their rulers should also be exposed to the results of such policy. That those who make military strategy should themselves reap some of its fruits, in the long run, may be just. This should tend to prevent aggressions and wars.

YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW

Quis is a citizen's army rather than a professional army. We deliberately select 1,000,000 of our young, vigorous, most physically fit men, the flower of our manhood, and send them out to kill or be killed. Why is there any more justification for their deaths than for the deaths of civilians provided that the same magnitude are at stake?

The job now being done by our armies, if successful, will save hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of the men in our civilian life. The greatest against air bombardment in effect places a higher value upon the lives of German civilians than it does upon the lives of Allied civilians who happen to be wearing uniforms. In this total war, it should be recognized, the old distinction between the front and the home-land has lost all meaning. An older man or a woman who makes munitions produces food is as much part of the total military force as a young man in uniform.

PURE ILLUSION

The notion that destruction from the air is somehow less brutal and devastating than destruction on the surface is pure illusion. It is merely more concentrated and more efficient. Insofar as it tends to bring war to a decision more quickly, air power is a more humane weapon, involving the loss of fewer human lives. We need only observe the completeness of destruction in the city of Rotterdam, such as are being fought in Russia and Southern Italy to realize that the kind of air strategy which succeeds in destroying the homeland, the source of military power, is the least costly in human sacrifice. Because surface warfare sometimes takes years to accomplish what air power accomplishes in weeks or months, its destructive force seems smaller. But it is merely spread thinner.

Our air forces are at this moment engaged in the most important action of the war. They require gratitude and encouragement, not rebuke based on misunderstanding of the realities of modern warfare.

Victoria High Students Score Stage Success

"Milestones," a play in three acts by Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblock, was presented to a capacity audience Wednesday evening by drama students of Victoria High school, in the school auditorium.

This is the school's annual production, and the students bent all their efforts to making it a success. From the applause and high interest of the audience throughout, it can be seen that the play was well received.

Such praise is to be given to Miss Eva O. Howard, whose excellent direction made one feel that it was a professional performance rather than an amateur high school play. Miss Howard selected girls and boys to fit the characters excellently.

Bethou Thompson portrayed to splendid advantage, the part of Rose Sibley, later Mrs. John Read, first a young girl about to be married, later a mother and at the end of the play an aged, shaky grandmother. Irving Lerner was excellent as John Read, the young man who believed in iron ships at a time when such ideas were risky.

Setting of the play throughout was in a small sitting room on the second floor of the Read's home. The first act took place in 1880, the second in 1885 and the third in 1912. Conflict between the younger and older generation in each case was well depicted.

June Clonney played the part of Gertrude Read, who throughout was broadminded and kind to the younger generation, siding with their ideals and hopes.

Others in the cast included Zola Lazarewicz as Mrs. Read, Don Wilson as Sam Sibley, Bill Griffith as Ned Pym, Olga Laruska as Emily, Maxine Hanson as Nancy, Bob English as Arthur Prentice, Green Roy as Arthur Pym, Alan Griffith as Lord Monkshurst, Gordon McCormack as Richard, Bruce Aitken as Thompson, and Bill Buchanan as Webster.

An orchestra conducted by W. R. Baker played intermission music. Properties, posters, drapes and decorations, costumes, make-up were the work of the students.—H.M.

Strike Ends

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 23.—(CP)—A strike 1,900 dock workers that tied up shipping here for five days ended yesterday afternoon, while a government arbitration board was considering the men's grievances.

House Passes Legislation to Protect Seats

Making it clear that a member of the legislature may act as an agent for the government insurance office without it affecting his seat in the house, a bill to amend the Legislative Assembly Act was approved by the legislature in committee of the whole Wednesday afternoon.

It is also provided in the bill that the receipt of a bonus, paid in part by the Dominion government and in part by the province for goods produced by a member shall not affect his seat in the legislature. This clause is designed to protect the rights of farmers-members of the house who may receive the four cent per pound wool bonus from the two governments.

OBJECTS TO AGENTS

C. Mahaffy, K.C. (Ind., Calgary) told the committee he did not object to the part of the bill dealing with members receiving the wool bonus, but he could not agree with the part concerning members acting as agents for the government insurance office.

This is driving the thin edge of the wedge into an age-old principle, said Mr. Mahaffy. "A man cannot simultaneously operate as an employer and an employee."

He suggested that legislation which would affect agents of the government insurance office might come before the legislature, and it could include provisions regarding the remuneration of the agents. A member who is also an agent might not be divorced from his own interests, and could not give the expected type of detached consideration to such legislation. It was contended.

Mr. Mahaffy moved that the portion of the amending legislation dealing with the government insurance office be struck out.

Speaking in support of Mr. Ma-haffy's motion to strike the section out, George MacLachlan (Ind.-Presb.) observed that there must have been good reason for introduction of provisions in the first place to see no member was to profit from the insurance office.

MATTER DISCUSSED

Hon. A. J. Hooker, provincial secretary, who is in charge of the government insurance office, said that members on both sides of the House had discussed with him the matter of acting as agent for the insurance office. He told members that the insurance branch was a corporate body, similar to any insurance company.

Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general, said the legislation was designed to deal with a class of individuals, and not single cases. Regarding the repay bonus, he said this was paid to a class, and the same principle applied to the class selling insurance. If the legislation singled out any one individual, the minister stated, he would oppose it.

The wool bonus payment is an entirely different matter to a contract made by the insurance office with a member for an agency. E. E. Roper (C.P.-Edmonton) declared he said he was opposed to "opening the door" as provided in the amendment.

PAID BY PROVINCE

Discussion on the bill brought out the fact that the wool bonus money is paid to growers by the provincial treasury, and the Dominion government later pays the province to the extent of 50 per cent of the cost.

Mr. Mahaffy's amendment was declared lost on a voice vote, and the bill was reported without further debate.

S.C. Board Report Attacked by Roper

When printed copies of the Alberta Social Credit Board's annual report were distributed to members at the opening of Wednesday's sitting of the legislature, E. E. Roper (C.P.-Edmonton) rose to charge the report contains "a mass of cal propaganda which is false and malicious."

Rising when orders of the day were reached on the legislative order paper, Mr. Roper said: "There has been laid on the table of the house and distributed in printed form Wednesday copies of the report of the Social Credit Board, prepared at public expense which, in my view, contains political propaganda which is false and malicious."

He said this was paid to a class, and the same principle applied to the class selling insurance. If the legislation singled out any one individual, the minister stated, he would oppose it.

PERISHABLE FRUITS Handle with Care.

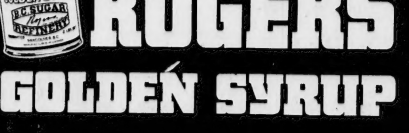

Fresh fruits are precious these days—fresh vegetables, too. There's a shortage of labor in the fields and orchards and there are transportation restrictions. Then, huge quantities of these vitamin-packed, health-promoting foods must go to the armed forces both here and overseas. What's left for civilian use must be carefully conserved. So when buying fruits don't pinch and bruise them, don't toss vegetables around. Handle with care, remembering that the ones you don't buy must be used by your neighbors.

Food Fights for Freedom! Here are TEN FOOD-SAVING RULES For Wartime

1. PLAN FOOD BUYING CAREFULLY. Don't buy more than you need. Don't buy more than you can use. Don't buy more than you can store.
2. PLANT A VICTORY GARDEN. Grow your own vegetables. Use your own eggs. Use your own butter. Use your own oil.
3. AVOID WASTE IN PREPARING. Wash and trim carefully. Use scraps for stock. Use scraps for soup. Use scraps for pie.
4. COOK FOODS PROPERLY. Cook thoroughly. Cook evenly. Cook quickly.
5. SERVE SMALL PORTIONS. Don't overeat. Don't waste. Don't throw away.
6. SAVE LEFT-OVERS. Use them for soups. Use them for stews. Use them for pies.
7. SAVE SURPLUS FATS. Use them for cooking. Use them for frying. Use them for baking.
8. DO NOT FEED. Don't feed your pet. Don't feed your dog. Don't feed your cat.
9. ENCOURAGE OTHERS TO SAVE. Don't waste. Don't throw away. Don't feed your pet.
10. REDUCE YOUR FOOD BILL. Buy in bulk. Buy in season. Buy in bulk.

House Elects Automatic Re-election of Servicemen

Sharp Criticism of Plan Voiced During Discussion Of Amending Legislation

A move to ensure automatic re-election to the Legislative Assembly of any member who is in the armed forces and liable for overseas service at the time of nominations for the next provincial general election was defeated in the Legislature Wednesday afternoon.

I Saw Today

At the time, the house was in committee of the whole, discussing legislation amending the Alberta Election Act, brought in by Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general. E. J. Martin (Ind.-Peace River) moved an amendment to the legislation to provide for automatic re-election of servicemen. It was defeated after long discussion.

Earlier in the session, Mr. Martin brought in a resolution dealing with the same question. It was ruled out of order at that time because it contained material before the house in the Election Act amendments. There are two members of the legislature on active service at the present time, LAC Gordon E. Taylor (S.C.-Drumheller), who obtained special leave to attend the session, and Capt. H. Tremblay (L.-Grouard), who is overseas.

Two Girls Missing From City Homes

Two juveniles were reported to city police as missing from their homes, Wednesday. They were Rose Gagne, 16 years old, of 1008 128 street, and Gertie Wylie, 17, of 19485 114 street.

The former has been missing since 1 p.m. Wednesday. Five feet tall, she weighs 106 pounds, has long brown hair, and wears glasses. She was attired in a brown skirt, white blouse, brown shoes and tan-colored stockings, when last seen.

The other girl was last seen about 8 p.m. Tuesday. She was described as being five feet three inches tall, weighing 135 pounds, and wearing glasses. Of fair complexion, she wore a brown coat, green dress, fawn-colored stockings and black shoes.

Recommend Stop In Park Program

The finance committee of city council Wednesday recommended to the parent body that the city plan of the Queen Mary Park subdivision be cancelled.

It recommended also that city land regulations be amended to provide safeguards against the further subdivision of lands used for agricultural purposes so that the city can have a measure of control over such subdivisions.

The Queen Mary Park subdivision cancellation was made to enable the sale of its 55 acres to a purchaser, intending to carry on farming operations. The site is located in the extreme north-west section of the city.

The release of 2 Air Observer School has affected the production schedule at the plant making the new lay-downs.

600 More Workers Will Be Released

Officials state that many of the new lay-downs are being returned to the agricultural industry by April 15.

To date there has not been any large movement of agricultural workers but a few in this category are daily returning to the farms to make arrangements for continuing spring work.

Employment officials are now re-evaluating the situation in the light of the fact that many of the aircrafts along the Alaska Highway are being sent to the front and civilians who are being moved out of the north in large numbers.

Lift Highway Ban As Mercury Drops

Announcement was made Thursday by W. T. Aiken, secretary Highway Traffic Board, that the ban on all roads has been lifted because of the sudden change in the weather.

Another factor in the lifting of the ban is the fact that many farmers are desirous of getting their grain out.

The ban may be understood, however, that as soon as the roads turn out to be in a better condition, trucks must not operate, Mr. Aiken stated.
